BARELY ESCAPED HORRIBLE DEATH

Mrs. A. F. Stewart Was Allowed to Lie in Semi-Conscious Condition Forty-eight Hours.

AFTER ACCIDENT OCCURRED

Twenty Dollars Taken From Her Person—Old Friend Finally Came to Her Assistance.

In a letter from Prof. A. F. Stewart, who was called to Los Angeles, Cal. one week ago last Sunday night on account of a serious accident to his wife, to his father, William A. Stewart of North Morgan street, is related the narrow escape which Mrs. Stewart had from a horrible death.

Mrs. Stewart has been visiting in the West this summer while her husband was spending his vacation here with his parents. One week ago last Saturday she went up to Los Angeles to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Logan, who formerly lived in this county. She also had on her person the address of another family in the city whom she intended to visit.

In alighting from the car Mrs. Stewart was thrown to the ground when the car started too soon and suffered a bad cut at the base of her brain and also several bruises. She was rendered unconscious by the fall and was picked up by an unknown party.

She was thrown in the muddy street, was covered with dirt and presented a deplorable appearance. She was taken to a county institution where she was left in the condition in which she was found until Sunday evening.

She was taken to the home, placed on a bed and allowed to lie there without any care or anything to eat for forty-eight hours. During her stay there she was partially unconscious most of the time and scarcely knew what was happening. She was searched and twenty dollars in money was taken from her person. An effort was finally made by the authorities to learn her identity. They found two addresses on her, one of Mr. Logan and the other of a friend, whom she had met about seven years ago and had not seen since, but upon whom she intended to call during her stay in the city.

An effort was made to locate the Logans, but it was found that they were out of the city. The other party, whose address she had, was called and asked if he knew the woman. He did not know who the woman could be, but called at the institution Sunday evening to identify her if possible.

After close examination he recognized her as Mrs. A. F. Stewart, whom he and his wife had met seven years before, and he immediately had her removed to a hospital and called his physician to wait on her. She was fast sinking away for the lack of treatment, as she had just been thrown on the bed and had not even had the dirt washed from her body, and the wound in back of her head, which was later found to be a slight fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Stewart is now able to sit up and it is thought that she will completely recover. She feels that she owes her life to the friend, whom she had met seven years before. It is her honest conviction that she would have been allowed to lie there in the condition in which she was taken from the street and probably would have died there and been buried in an unknown grave had she not happened to have the addresses on her person.

Prof. and Mrs. A. F. Stewart formerly resided here, where he was employed as instructor in the high school for a number of years. Two or three years ago he received a call to the chair of Latin in Monmouth (Illinois) college, and has since that time resided there. Prof. Stewart was here visiting his parents when he received news of his wife's accident.

BACK IN NATIVE COUNTY

Levi Hilligoss, 88 Years Old, is Here
For the Fair.

Levi Hilligoss, who was born in Rush county eighty-eight years ago, but has spent most of his life in traveling over the United States, is here to attend the fair and to visit relatives here and at Arlington. But few men of his age are better preserved as he looks hale and hearty and his quick step and erect form indicate that there is a strong probability of his reaching the century mark.

MET ONLY AFTER LONG SEPERATION

Frank Moore of Richland Had Not Seen His Sister For Thirty-Five Years.

LIVES IN DENVER, COLORADO

The joy of meeting a relative or an old friend after being separated from them for nearly a half century was that which came to the lot of Frank Moore of Richland township yesterday. His sister, whom he had not seen for thirty-five years, is visiting relatives here in this city and came especially to attend the Rush county fair. She moved to Denver, Colorado, many years ago and is now back for the first time. Mr. Moore came to this city yesterday to visit with her all day. She is accompanied by her two daughters.

LARGE CROWD AT BAPTIST MEETING

Rush County Churches Represented at the Regular Session of the Flatrock Association.

IS HELD IN DECATUR COUNTY

More than five hundred persons were in attendance at the eighty-seventh annual meeting of Flatrock Baptist Association at Burney Tuesday, says the Greensburg News. The visitors came from Rush, Fayette, Shelby, Decatur, and Bartholomew counties, and an enjoyable and profitable day was passed. Both dinner and supper were served on the grounds. The Association heretofore numbered twenty-three churches but Tuesday admitted the Baptist churches of Connorsville, Cambridge City, Richmond, Rossburg and Elkhorn. The program Tuesday consisted of devotional exercises, an introductory sermon by Rev. R. B. Morgan and the reading of the church letters. The Association will continue in session over Wednesday.

THROWN FROM PONY.

Walter, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stiers of Manilla is recovering nicely from his injuries received last week when he was thrown from a pony. The animal threw the youngster off and for a time it was thought the injuries might prove fatal. However his condition has greatly improved.

BIG WEDNESDAY AT COUNTY FAIR

Crowd Larger Than Last Year—The Exhibits and the Races Are Success.

STOCK PARADE IS A FEATURE

Spectators Admire Three Fine Six-
Horse Teams Which Competed
For Prizes.

The fifty-third Rush county fair is off with a rush and the first real day was up to the expectations of the optimistic and exceeded the hopes of the others. Although the official attendance can not be announced at this time the men on the gate say the sale of tickets has been larger today than it was last year.

The feature of the morning was the parade in which all stock entered in the exhibits was shown—or at least was supposed to be shown. Many of the exhibitors could not get their stuff ready, but at that the parade was one of the largest ever seen on the ground. The parade drew many people and was fully up to the expectations of the promoters.

The race program was carried out this afternoon according to the schedule and some good heats were pulled off. A 2:25 pace, a 2:35 trot and a road pace were the events of the afternoon.

The visitors at the fair this morning saw an exhibition which has never before been seen at any county fair in the State and is seldom seen at any State fair. Three six horse teams were shown and horsemen say it was one of the finest exhibits ever made on the Rush county fair ground or any place in the State. The teams were entered by Souders & Dalrymple of Carthage; Will Brown and Caspar Johnson; and R. J. Hall and Lon Hinton. The prizes for these exhibits are furnished by the draft stallion owners of the county.

The air ship continues to be the center of attraction and there were many people at the fair today to see the trip scheduled for today. Nassr expected to go up this afternoon about four o'clock, or just after the races were completed.

Charley Applegate of this city, the original corn crisp man, who makes the fairs every year, has changed his location from the corner of the agricultural hall to the space just south of the secretary's office. This is the first time that he has had a new location since he has had a stand at the county fair.

Mrs. A. W. Tompkins of Indianapolis, who formerly resided here, is one of the regular entrants in the floral hall every year and she always succeeds in carrying away several firsts. She displays fancy hand-painted china, which she makes herself. Mrs. Tompkins' work is very high class and usually has a host of admirers.

Tom Cauley has placed some very artistic as well as attractive signs on the fair ground for Dora Betker. They were made out of plaster paris and were made and designed by Mr. Cauley.

One of the most interesting features on the fair ground is the township displays to be found in the agriculture hall. All of the people from one township, who have entered exhibits for the fair, place them together and a prize is awarded on the best display as well as the individual pieces. Union township was the first township to have their display arranged this year and it presents a

AIRSHIP SAILS OVER THE WIRES

But Tony Nassr and the Spectators

TODAY'S FLIGHT.

Nassr expects to make another flight shortly after four o'clock this afternoon. If weather conditions are favorable he will sail over this city.

After testing and balancing, coaxing and trying the different parts, Tony Nassr left the ground in his air ship shortly before six o'clock last evening at the fair ground in his first flight in Rush county. And this first flight looked as though it would be his last before he landed safely on the good old earth again. After circling around the enclosure inside the half mile track in a way that surprised even the most credulous of his admirers the rudder on the machine stuck and Nassr stopped the engine when he could no longer guide the craft. He dropped a rope for the men below to pull him down, but the only man near could not accomplish it.

A breeze from the south carried the big craft toward the high tension wires on the I. & C. traction line and Nassr began begging for the men below to save him. When he saw that they could not stop him in time to save him from the wires, he yelled to them to let him go.

The spectators watched the craft drift toward the north and toward the wires carrying certain death—if he landed on them. And from the ground it looked as though the ship would touch the wires. Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Grossman and Miss Edna Brenner and M. H. Nassr, father of the aeronaut, were all badly frightened as they saw the craft drifting toward the wires. And they knew the danger, too, for the aeronaut has been worried by the wires and had expressed a fear of them. The women unconsciously begged someone to save the man, but the spectators stood there helpless.

Then Tony dropped some ballast and the ship stopped its downward course for a few seconds. The wires were cleared by a few feet and Nassr was safe on the north side of the track. The crowd breathed a sign of relief.

"Oh, thank goodness he's all right now," said Miss Brenner, who had been watching the craft almost afraid to speak.

The ship lowered gradually after it crossed the wires and gracefully came to the ground.

Soon the machine was ready for another flight and Nassr started back over the wires again, this time at ease as the machinery was working perfectly.

The machine circled around the track several times and Mr. Nassr showed that he had perfect control of it by making figure eights and guiding it wherever he wished to go. The few spectators who had remained to see the second flight were surprised by his wonderful control over the machine. And then just as he was preparing to land after he had been in the air twenty-two minutes the rudder stuck again and the machine drifted over the field north of the I. & C. tracks before the landing could be made.

Since it was getting late Mr. Nassr did not attempt to make another flight, but "led" the craft back to its "stable" in the pit.

The aeronaut was well pleased with his preliminary flight, and said today that with fair weather he would make a big success of his work this week. He expected to start about four o'clock this afternoon and he said that if everything was favorable he would attempt a flight to this city.

In his flights Mr. Nassr does not attempt high flights although he says he has reached an altitude of 1000 feet. He says for exhibition purposes lower flights are much more satisfactory as the spectators can see him work much better. Yesterday afternoon he estimated he did not reach a height greater than three hundred feet.

M. H. Nassr of Toledo, who is the guest of his son, takes great interest in the work and helps wherever he can. He is certainly the proud father of an accomplished son and goes around saying little but with that look on his face which is unmistakable: "He's my son."

Ray Lakin is acting as extra policeman this week on account of the large crowds which are expected during the remainder of the week to attend the fair. DEATH RELIEVES LONG SUFFERER

Mrs. Sarah Poundstone Called Away
After Eighteen Months' Illness
From Cancerous Growth.

WAS DAUGHTER OF A MINISTER

And Started in Church Work When a Girl—Sister in Serious Condition From Paralysis.

Mrs. Sarah Poundstone, fifty-seven years old, died this afternoon at her home in North Harrison street, shortly after two o'clock. Mrs. Poundstone had been sick for eighteen months with a cancerous affection of the liver and stomach. Last night her condition became much worse and her death was momentarily expected all day.

She was the daughter of the Rev. Dr. F. C. Holliday, who was the first pastor in the new St. Paul's M. E. church here. He became pastor of the local church in 1886 and came back the second year, but did not finish his service because of sickness.

Born in Indianapolis February 7, 1852, Mrs. Poundstone spent the greater part of her girlhood days there. Her mother died while she was still young and she became the housekeeper for her father. She was very active in church work at Madison, where her father was the pastor for a few years.

After her marriage to E. B. Poundstone here she became one of the most active workers in the Methodist church, and until her health failed was always to be found in all church movements.

A thing that makes her death particularly sad is the fact that her sister, Miss Anna Holliday, who has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Poundstone several years, is seriously ill as the result of a stroke of paralysis. She was slightly improved today.

Besides Miss Holliday, Mrs. Poundstone has another sister, Mrs. L. L. Abbott, who lives with her son at New Haven, Conn. The husband and daughter, Miss Anna, are the only other survivors.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

FOLSOM'S FACE IS IN THE FRONT ROW

Talk-It-Over Man Has a Prominent Place in Group Picture of Company's Officers.

IS ENJOYING SEMI-VACATION

Folsom has been talking it over in Springfield, Mass., for several days, and has been having a big time while attending the convention of the officers and agents of the Mutual Life Insurance company which is in session there. On the front page of the Springfield Homestead of last Saturday there appeared a large six-column cut of the agents and officers of the company. His honor, Folsom, is prominent in the front row, and is just "as natural as life."

When Folsom gets home he will have traveled more than 2600 miles while spending his semi-vacation. He has seen many interesting things while in the Bay State and believes he will be in better condition than ever to talk it over when he gets down to brass tacks again.

RESTS WITH THE SUPREME COURT

Consumers' Right to Buy From Brewers Resisted.

TEST TO BE MADE IN INDIANA

Attorney General Has Prepared a Brief in an Appealed Case of Importance to Every "Dry" County in the State—Practice of Brewers and Wholesalers Selling Directly to Consumers Is Brought Into Question—May Put an End to Social Clubs in "Dry" Counties.

Indianapolis, Aug. 25.—If the attorney general's contentions as set forth in a brief to be filed in the appealed case of the state against John Skelton of Greencastle are upheld by the supreme court, it will put a stop to the practice of the brewing companies and wholesale liquor dealers selling direct to consumers, and will seriously interfere with the continuance of the numerous social clubs which are being formed in "dry" counties to enable the members to have liquor at a common drinking place. The case was appealed by Skelton from the Putnam circuit court when that court held that an agency license issued to the Terre Haute Brewing company by the town board of Greencastle was not sufficient to enable Skelton, its local agent, to sell beer to consumers after the county had voted "dry."

The attorney general will make his fight under the Beardsley act of 1907 (the so-called "druggists' act") which provides conditions under which pharmacists may sell intoxicants.

According to the contention of the attorney general, the original act of 1875 made no provision for licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors in quantities of more than five gallons at a time, and when the amending act of 1895 made mention of such licensing its provision on this point was null and void. The subsequent Beardsley act, however, remedied this fault, it is declared.

The main question involved, according to the brief of the attorney general, is the failure of the statutes to provide for the sale by wholesalers or manufacturers to the consumer. The statutes require that all sales of liquor, except in the case of the druggists, in less quantities than five gallons at a time, "shall be licensed under the laws of the state." The statutory definition of "wholesaler" as used in the liquor trade is "a person, firm or corporation whose sole business in connection with the liquor traffic is to sell at wholesale to retail dealers licensed by the law of the state, or to wholesale liquor dealers, or to druggists or pharmacists who are licensed as such by the state board of pharmacy."

"The intent of the licensing statutes," the brief holds, "is to put the whole business of supplying beer to the consumer in the hands of the saloon man."

The attorney general holds that Skelton neither sold to a licensed retail dealer nor to a licensed druggist or pharmacist and that he therefore violated the law providing for the regulation of wholesale liquor dealers and their agents.

KU KLUX REVIVED

"Tibo Tib" and His Band Visit a Georgia Town.

Dalton, Ga., Aug. 25.—As the result of a mysterious visit paid this town by a band of mounted masked men who style themselves members of the once-famous Ku Klux Klan, there is considerable excitement in Dalton and vicinity.

After paying visits to three prominent citizens of the town, "Tibo Tib, Grand Cyclops," and his band of thirty or more robed and masked riders departed. The names of three negroes as well as several white men are mentioned in the warning as being marked for death unless they forthwith discontinue certain practices charged to them, such as selling blind tiger liquor, loafing, etc. "Blind tigers, gamblers, lewd women, street loafers and vagrants must go," declares the ukase.

WOMAN FATALLY SHOT

Mob Attacks Home of Superintendent of Carlisle Mine.

Carlisle, Ind., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Gustave Stivenhart, wife of the superintendent of the Carlisle mine, was fatally shot early this morning. Mrs. Stivenhart was at her home when the house was attacked by a crowd of unidentified men. She sustained a dangerous wound in the back.

While it is not known who is guilty of the shooting it is believed to have some bearing on the recent trouble at the mine. There has been feeling between Superintendent Stivenhart and the miners for some time.

By special order of the sultan of Morocco, according to advices from Fez, the prisoners captured at the defeat of El Roghi have been barbarously tortured.

BULLETS FLEW WHEN FEUD WAS REVIVED

Indiana Village the Scene of Fatal Shooting.

Attica, Ind., Aug. 25.—As a result of a bloody affray in the quiet little village of Independence, six miles up the river from this city, Joseph McFarren, a well known druggist, is fatally wounded, and Lewis Wilhite is in jail at Williamsport awaiting a preliminary hearing on the charge of attempted murder.

An old quarrel between the Wilhite and McFarren families was renewed when Wilhite went into the McFarren drug store and started trouble. Arnett McFarren, son of the proprietor, took up the quarrel and ordered Wilhite out of the store. In the encounter following young McFarren shot Wilhite four times with a small revolver, inflicting only slight wounds.

Wilhite vowed he would "wipe out the whole McFarren family," and later followed Joseph McFarren to his home, where he shot him. A little later, in trying to show a friend the manner in which he had shot McFarren, Wilhite accidentally sent a bullet through the neck of Will Reynolds a bystander, just missing the jugular vein.

The whole town was aroused by this time, and Wilhite fled down the river in a boat, the officers in pursuit. He was captured near the Wabash depot in this city by the city marshal from here.

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.
County of Monroe }
Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

Sworn to before me this 14th day of July, 1909

TO CULL IMMIGRANTS

Missouri to Become a Pioneer in a Big Problem.

THE DISTRIBUTING OF ALIENS.

How the Bullion State Will Induce Foreigners of the Right Kind to Settle Within Her Confines—Value of the Scheme.

Missouri has decided to take its pick of the immigration coming to the United States. Ever since Governor Hadley took his seat the state authorities have been pondering over ways and means to attract a desirable class of immigrants to build up the waste places and put more value into the farm holdings. The Missouri State Society of New York has also been working at the other end of the line to accomplish the same object. Last winter these same patriotic sons of Missouri, who make their homes in New York, but who have not lost interest in the welfare of their native state, suggested that if a live, energetic agent were stationed at Ellis island, where the great bulk of immigrants disembark, great good would be likely to come of it. Now, after a conference with Commissioner Keefe of the United States immigration bureau, Commissioner Curran of the Missouri immigration bureau has announced that the state board will establish an agency at the immigrant station at Ellis island. The purpose is to work in co-operation with the federal bureau in inducing as many immigrants as possible of the right kind to make their homes in Missouri.

Advantages of the State.

Thus Missouri is to become a pioneer in solving the problem of distributing immigrants throughout the United States instead of leaving them to act upon their own resources without advice or assistance of a trustworthy kind. Two other states, Louisiana and South Carolina, have tried the plan and are much pleased with the results. This state is likely to be still more so, inasmuch as it can offer many advantages in climate, soil and social environment which are lacking in the semitropical gulf states. Besides being centrally located, along the parallel of travel east and west, Missouri probably enjoys a greater diversity of soil and climate, both of the most favorable character, than any other state in the Union. With fertile grain producing lands in its center and northern counties, stock breeding and dairy farms of the northwest tier, cotton and tobacco in the southwest and its unsurpassed fruit orchards and vineyards along the slopes of the Ozarks in the southwest, this state presents every advantage to the agricultural immigrant that could be desired, not to speak of the coal, iron, zinc, lead and other flourishing mining industries which extend from the extreme northwestern to the southwestern borders, affording employment at high wages to many thousands of sturdy workers. Many workmen in the coal mines of this state net upward of $7 a day from eight hours of labor. Thus no industrious immigrant who settles in this state will have occasion to regret his choice so far as material prosperity is concerned, while from a social point of view no warmer hearted and more hospitable people can be found on earth than the native Missourians.

National Bureau to Be Established.

The federal authorities are said to be so much impressed with the Missouri idea of the state going directly to the source of supply to obtain the pick of the immigrants that they have decided to establish a national immigration bureau at Washington to direct immigrants to favorable locations throughout the United States and to gather information along this line for the benefit of states that may desire to take advantage of the opportunity to augment their population. This plan, if intelligently pursued, ought to go far to establish the much desired equilibrium of labor between the east and west which has been sought after for years alike by public officers in the bureau of immigration and private philanthropists. At least it cannot fail to lessen the tremendous congestion of aliens in the large cities of the east, which is fast becoming a menace to the welfare of the nation.—Kansas City Journal.

Pledged Always to Be Spinsters.

With the corkscrew curl as the emblem of their society, eight Indiana girls recently organized a spinster club in the home of Mrs. Maurice Froham in Columbus, O. They took a solemn pledge they would never, so long as they lived, become married. Bernina Crater was elected supreme spinster. The other officers are vice supreme spinster, keeper of the tabby cat, keeper of the poll parrot, most high maker of fudge, keeper of the inner shrine and protectress of the sacred oath. The girls are Nellie Crater and Bernina Crater of Edinburg, Florence Deltz and Florence Miller of Madison, O. Gore of Indianapolis, Katharine Harrell, Hattie Watts and Lulu Peterson of Columbus.

New Zionist Organization.

A new Zionist organization, which will be in a sense an adjunct of the Federation of American Zionists, was recently formed in New York city. It is to be known as the Solomon Neumann Zion lodge, and its purpose is to aid Zionist institutions throughout the world with especial reference to the founding of more colonies in Palestine. Dr. Solomon Neumann was elected president.

Rushville Man.

Experience is the modern instructor. Profit by the experiences of others. It may save your life. The experience of friends and neighbors, The testimony of Rushville people Will bring renewed encouragement. Here is a case in point: Mason Maxey, 836 W. Third street, Rushville, Ind., says: "No remedy I ever used benefited me as greatly as Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. I was subject to attacks of kidney and bladder trouble for years and I had almost despaired of ever finding relief. The kidney secretions passed far too frequently and the most acute twinges darted through my loins at unexpected times. Finally I made up my mind to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply from F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. They relieved me promptly and this convinced me of their great worth."

FEARED CANNIBALISM

Shipwrecked Woman Drowned Her
Four Children and Herself.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 25.—The steamer Makura from Australia has just brought to port a tragic story of the wreck of the Norwegian bark Erral, which struck Middletown reef June 18. Only five of the twenty-two men aboard the Erral were alive when the wreck was discovered by the steamer Tatu. These were taken aboard the Tatu nearly dead from thirst and starvation. Captain Anderson and the second mate were drowned while building a raft. Anderson's wife and children saw him disappear, and finally, after others had succumbed and the remainder were weak from starvation, the captain's wife drowned her four children under the impression that the five survivors were planning to resort to cannibalism. She followed her children into the waves.

The five survivors were too far gone to talk much of their sufferings.

STRIKERS PAUSE IN BLOODY STRUGGLE

Further Incidents In McKee's Rocks War.

Pittsburg, Aug. 25.—Last evening the finding of three more terribly beaten bodies of strike sympathizers, victims of Sunday night's slaughter at McKee's Rocks, was horrifying in its ghastliness, for troopers, detailed to the work of searching for dead and wounded, made little effort to spare the feelings of the men who gathered about them when the bodies, two under a pile of railroad ties and one under a culvert on the tracks of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad, were pulled into sight. The corpses, hardly recognizable as those of human beings, were hastily piled into a morgue wagon and turned over to the county officials. With the burying of dead strikers and the finding of the additional bodies came a truce in hostilities. From dawn to nightfall not a pistol shot was heard, neither was there an arrest. The strikers and their sympathizers during the day kept to themselves and even gave up a mass meeting planned for the late afternoon, as they believed the gathering could do no good at this time. Eugene V. Debs was in McKee's Rocks to address the strikers, but even he declared that words were of little avail now, as the riots of Sunday night had for once and all placed the strikers in the position of outcasts, whose cause was all but lost.

And on every hand it is conceded that the strikers have lost their fight. The Pressed Steel Car company plant is in operation with over 1,000 men at work. These men, while not all skilled or finished workmen, turned out three steel cars, which were placed on view just outside the car plant gates. In a measure, President Frank Hoffstot of the car company has made good his assertion that he would never give in to the strikers, even if he was ruined financially and his plant had to lie idle for two years. Martial law reigns supreme in the strike zone and more than 150 state and county officers patrol the streets. The death list resulting from Sunday night's disorders now totals eleven, while two are in hospitals expected to die within the next twenty-four hours. The less seriously injured are all reported to be improving slowly.

Let every Republican come out and take a hand in organizing the party and in nominating the tickets, suggests the Warren Review. No man or clique of men is big enough to assume the power to dictate an organization of the party, or the nomination of a ticket. There has never been a time when the Republican party was as free from those objections as at the present time. There will be an organization of the party; it will be done by the Republicans in the precincts first, and will be followed up, through the different organization meetings until a State chairman is elected and the organization completed. The indications are there will be more harmony and good feeling in the Republican party of Indiana in 1910 than for years.

All the talk about trouble in the Republican ranks is fathered by the wish of the Democrats that it be so. Republican troubles will be a "cloud like unto a man's hand" compared to the cyclone that will burst forth in the Democratic party of Indiana in the next campaign. Republicans have made enough sacrifices and got nothing in return. Now we are going to stand together and take the plums and give the Democrats the lemons. Here's to success!

President Taft is ambitious, and like every other president, he wants to do a work which will give his administration a distinctive place in history. If he is able to arrange matters as he desires, he will make the coming session of Congress as eventful as Mr. Roosevelt made that of 1905-06, the session which saw the enactment of the railway rate regulation, the pure food, the meat inspection, the national quarantine and other measures of large consequence.

With this end in view, a conference of Republican leaders has been called for August 30th, for the purpose of consultation and outlining the business legislation which Mr. Taft aims to make an important feature of the work of his administration.

The president and the learned members of his council will have a very important work on their hands in putting their program of industrial and financial legislation into shape. They will need the advice of all the authorities in those fields who are accessible. That conference of Aug. 30th can easily turn out to be as important as any gathering of government officials which has been held since Grant and his advisers, shortly after he vetoed the inflation bill of April, 1874, met and formulated the program for the restoration of gold payments, which resulted in the enactment of the specie resumption law of January, 1875, which went into operation in January, 1879.

THIS AND THAT

Of course Mr. Nassr is used to danger, but he would be just as happy if there were not so many live wires in Rush county.

Did you ever notice that a wild west show "cow puncher" can't even swing a lasso unless he has a bandana handkerchief around his neck. And two corners should be exactly half way between his shoulder blades too.

The horse show should be supported not only by the business men but by the residents of the city as well. It is a big advertisement and attracts many people here.

Several people were busy as bees at the fair ground Tuesday afternoon. Somebody stirred up a nest and there sure was some fighting for a while.

Lieutenant Governor Hall is not alone in his opinion that automobile racing should be prohibited by law.

Dr. A. M. Finch, a physician of 30 years' experience, is here on his regular monthly visit, and will remain until Friday evening. He will carefully examine you free of charge. Don't forget the time and place, until Friday evening at Mrs. Ross' boarding house, 208 West Second street. 1411

BY THE WAYSIDE

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

SCAFFOLD FOR BED.

(Greenfield Tribune.)

J. A. Wilson suffered a painful injury Sunday afternoon. Workmen are making a new veranda at his home on North State street. Mr. Wilson lay down on the scaffold which had been erected. The leg of the scaffold gave way, letting him drop about six or seven feet. His right side struck the ground on some stones, bruising it up but not inflicting any internal injuries. A physician was called and treated his side and today he was able to sit up, but was not able to walk.

HONEY BEE LINE.

(Shirley News.)

According to the rumors that have reached here the Honey Bee line will be completed and work will begin on it soon. A party was here last week going over the line and taking an inventory. Who he was and what interest he represented the News was unable to learn. Mr. Miller, the track walker, who has been going over the line twice a week since the road went into the hands of the receiver, says that work will begin within thirty days and has bets with some of the boys here to that effect.

The local telephone company had made arrangements to use one of the wires along the line to make direct connection with Indianapolis, but was advised the fore part of the week that it wouldn't justify them to go to the expense of making the connections, hinting that work would probably be started in a short time.

WILL SKIP ONE YEAR.

(Richmond Item.)

There may be no art exhibit in Richmond next year. The Art association just now is planning to let the exhibit go over one year and then hold a large high class exhibit in 1911 in the new high school building now being constructed. If the exhibit were held next spring it would have to be held in the present Garfield building, which will likely be torn up at the time for further improvements.

The exhibits of the last few years have been great successes and each has been better than the preceding one. But it is thought this process of making the exhibit better each year can not go on indefinitely. It had been done at a great outlay of money and by dint of hard work. The last exhibit was better in quality of work shown than any preceding exhibit, but it did not arouse the enthusiasm that some of the others had done. Art lovers attended, but the masses did not go. It is argued by those in charge that if the exhibit is let rest a year the people will return to it with renewed enthusiasm.

Two grandchildren all in one morning is the good fortune for John Moore. A seven pound girl was born to his daughter, Mrs. Will Frazier, this morning, and a few hours later a seven and one-half pound boy was born to the wife of his son, Clyde Moore.

AMUSEMENTS

The management of the Palace theater has to offer tonight a sentimental Biograph film, "The Mended Flute." It is a dramatic subject and well acted as all pictures are made by this firm. Iva Brown will sing the illustrated song, "She's the Big Chief's Only Daughter."

The Kramer rink will be open for skating tonight.

The Vaudet has a complete change of program tonight in the two subjects, "The Boots He Couldn't Lose" and "Buying Manhattan." The first picture is comic and said to be very entertaining. The second is a dramatic subject with an educational phase to it. As an extra attraction the management has obtained the Angel sisters from Indianapolis in a special vaudeville act. They have appeared here before. Leon Maxey will sing, "I Love But You Dear and Only You Dear."

The Star-Grand could not accommodate the crowds last night, and to show his appreciation has added another attraction for tonight. A cowboy will put on a buck and wing dance as an added attraction. Conley & Conley pleased the patrons last night and received repeated encores. They will have a change of program tonight. The film tonight will be "The Story of Psyche," a highly colored film made by Pathe Brothers. The film deals with an interesting phase and incidents in Greek mythology. Baby Estella will put on her serpentine dance again tonight.

CHAPTER VII.

Smoky Creek Bridge.

It was not alone that a defiance makes a bad dinner sauce; there was more than this for McCloud to feed on. He was forced to confess to himself as he walked back to the Wickiup that the most annoying feature of the incident was the least important.

"Here is the Silk, Mr. Sinclair."

namely, that his only enemy in the country should be entrusted with commissions from the Stone ranch and be carrying packages for Dickie Dunning. It was Sinclair's trick to do things for people, and to make himself so useful that they must like first his obligingness and afterward himself. Sinclair, McCloud knew, was close in many ways to Lance Dunning. It was said to have been his influence that won Dunning's consent to sell a right of way across the ranch for the new Crawling Stone line. But McCloud felt it useless to disguise the fact to himself that he now had a second keen interest in the Crawling Stone country—not alone a dream of a line, but a dream of a girl. Sitting moodily in his office, with his feet on the desk, a few nights after his encounter with Sinclair, he recalled her nod as she said good-by. It had seemed the least bit encouraging, and he meditated anew on the only 20 minutes of real pleasurable excitement he had ever felt in his life, the 20 minutes with Dickie Dunning at Smoky Creek. Her intimates, he had heard, called her Dickie, and he was vaguely envying her intimates when the night dispatcher, Rooney Lee, opened the door and disturbed his reflections.

"How is Number One, Rooney?" called McCloud, as if nothing but the thought of a train movement ever entered his head.

Rooney Lee paused. In his hand he held a message, and he faced McCloud with evident uneasiness. "Holy smoke, Mr. McCloud, here's a ripper! We've lost Smoky Creek bridge."

"Lost Smoky Creek bridge?" echoed McCloud, rising in amazement.

"Burned to-night. Seventy-seven was flagged by the man at the pump station."

"That's a tie-up for your life!" exclaimed McCloud, reaching for the message. "How could it catch fire? Is it burned up?"

"I can't get anything on that yet; this came from Canby. I'll have a good wire in a few minutes and get it all for you."

"Have Phil Halley and Hyde notified, Rooney, and Reed and Brill Young, and get up a train. Smoky Creek bridge! By heavens, we are ripped up the back now! What can we do there, Rooney?" He was talking to himself. "There isn't a thing for it on God's earth but switchbacks and five-per-cent. grades down to the bottom of the creek and cribbing across it till the new line is ready. Wire Callahan and Morris Blood, and get everything you can for me before we start."

Ten hours later and many hundreds of miles from the mountain division, President Bucks and a companion were riding in the peace of a June morning down the beautiful Mohawk valley with an earlier and illustrious railroad man, William C. Brown. The three men were at breakfast in Brown's car. A message was brought in for Bucks. He read it and passed it to his companion, Whispering Smith, who sat at Brown's left hand. The message was from Callahan with the news of the burning of Smoky Creek bridge. Details were few, because no one on the west end could suggest a plausible cause for the fire.

"What do you think of it, Gordon?" demanded Bucks, bluntly.

Whispering Smith seemed at all times bordering on good-natured surprise, and in that normal condition he read Callahan's message.

He was laughing under Bucks' scrutiny when he handed the message back. "Why, I don't know a thing about it, not a thing; but taking a long shot and speaking by and far, I should say it looks something like first blood for Sinclair," he suggested, and to change the subject lifted his cup of coffee.

"Then it looks like you for the mountains to-night instead of for Weber and Fields," retorted Bucks, reaching for a cigar. "Brown, why have you never learned to smoke?"

CHAPTER VIII.

The Misunderstanding.

No attempt was made to minimize the truth that the blow to the division was a staggering one. The loss of Smoky Creek bridge put almost 1,000 miles of the mountain division out of business. Perishable freight and time freight were diverted to other lines. Passengers were transferred; lunches were served to them in the deep valley, and they were supplied by an ingenious advertising department with pictures of the historic bridge as it had long stood, and their addresses were taken with the promise of a picture of the ruins. The engineering department and the operating department united in a tremendous effort to bring about a resumption of traffic. Glover's men, pulled off construction, were sent forward in trainloads. Dancing's linemen strung arc lights along the creek until the canyon twinkled at night like a mountain village, and men in three shifts worked elbow to elbow unceasingly to run the switchbacks down to the creek bed. There, by cribbing across the bottom, they got in a temporary line.

McCloud spent his days at the creek and his nights at Medicine Bend with his assistant and his chief dispatcher, advising, counseling, studying out trouble reports, and steadying wherever he could the weakened lines of his operating forces. He was getting his first taste of the trials of the hardest worked and poorest paid man in the operating department of a railroad—the division superintendent.

To these were added personal annoyances. A trainload of Duck Barsteers, shipped by Lance Dunning from the Crawling Stone ranch, had been caught west of the bridge the very night of the fire. They had been loaded at Tipton and shipped to catch a good market, and under extravagant promises from the livestock agent of a quick run to Chicago. When Lance Dunning learned that his cattle had been caught west of the break and would have to be unloaded, he swore up a horse in hot haste and started for Medicine Bend. McCloud, who had not closed his eyes for 60 hours, had just got into Medicine Bend from Smoky Creek and was sitting at his desk buried in a mass of papers, but he ordered the cattleman admitted. He was, in fact, eager to meet the manager of the big ranch and the cousin of Dickie. Lance Dunning stood above six feet in height, and was a handsome man, in spite of the hard lines around his eyes, as he walked in; but neither his manner nor his expression was amiable.

"Are you Mr. McCloud? I've been here three times this afternoon to see you," said he, ignoring McCloud's answer and a proffered chair. "This is your office, isn't it?"

McCloud, a little surprised, answered again and civilly: "It certainly is; but I have been at Smoky Creek for two or three days."

"What have you done with my cattle?"

"The Duck Bar train was run back to Point of Rocks and the cattle were unloaded at the yard."

Lance Dunning spoke with increasing harshness: "By whose order was that done? Why wasn't I notified? Have they had feed or water?"

"All the stock caught west of the bridge was sent back for feed and water by my orders. It has all been taken care of. You should have been notified, certainly; it is the business of the stock agent to see to that. Let me inquire about it while you are here, Mr. Dunning," suggested McCloud, ringing for his clerk.

Dunning lost no time in expressing himself. "I don't want my cattle held at Point of Rocks!" he said, angrily. "Your Point of Rocks yards are infected. My cattle shouldn't have been sent there."

"Oh, no! The old yards where they had a touch of fever were burned off the face of the earth a year ago. The new yards are perfectly sanitary. The loss of the bridge has crippled us, you know. Your cattle are being well cared for, Mr. Dunning, and if you doubt it you may go up and give our men any orders you like in the matter at our expense."

"You're taking altogether too much on yourself when you run my stock over the country in this way," exclaimed Dunning, refusing to be placated. "How am I to get to Point of Rocks—walk there?"

"Not at all," returned McCloud, ringing up his clerk and asking for a pass, which was brought back in a moment and handed to Dunning. "The cattle," continued McCloud, "can be run down, unloaded, and driven around the break to-morrow—with the loss of only two days."

"And in the meantime I lose my market."

"It is too bad, certainly, but I sup-

ET. WAYNE ON FIRE

With Enthusiasm Over a Wonderful Discovery.

A well-known scientist recently introduced to the people of Ft. Wayne, Ind., a discovery resulting from years of hard study, extensive travel and much experimenting that has become the talk of thousands and has set that city on fire with enthusiasm over the many wonderful things it has done. Scores of people who have suffered for years with some chronic ailment have been restored to perfect health after using this discovery a short while. The discovery is principally composed of a collection of roots that are soaked in hot water, then the juice is extracted from them. It is called Root Juice. Many say that the energizing effect of one swallow of the juice is almost instantaneous. It seems that it relieves almost any trouble of the stomach, bowels, kidneys and liver and that its soothing, healing and tonic action on the digestive and secretory organs is so rapid that even some of the worst cases of indigestion, constipation and nervousness, kidney troubles and rheumatism are perceptibly benefited from the very start.

"After You, Alphonse."

In days of old, when Boabdil Was sassy to El Cid,
That pride of Spanish chivalry
Went out to do and did!
He called his knights of Aragon,
He called the peasants poor,
And then he quite successfully
Cleaned up the turbaned Moor.

In those old days a man thought naught
Of joining in a strife.
Because his king had summoned him
He gladly gave his life.
But times have changed. Now people want—

Yea, even in Castile—
To be assured their sacrifice
Will aid the common weal.

Oh, where is Spanish chivalry?
Alfonso doth lament.
With other things, like rights divine,
Some time ago it went
Away till now the common folks,
Who used to gladly die
Because their masters told them to,
Are asking, "Tell us—why?"

Alfonso is a father now.
He ought to understand
That other folks have children, too,
Throughout his native land.
And, though he shoots those children
down,
I'll bet their last cry haunts,
And he can see no humor in
"We're after you, Alphonse!"

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 24.—Miss Genevieve Rabig, 1619 Garfield boulevard, Chicago, and Mrs. Geo. Granger, wife of a retired Kankakee merchant, were instantly killed and five other occupants of a touring car were seriously injured when the machine was run down last evening on a crossing of the Big Four in this city. PREMEDITATED MURDER

You Will Benefit Yourself and All Humanity by Killing Dandruff Germs.

Microbes cause baldness, falling hair, dandruff, irritated scalp and other diseases. It is no crime to kill them.

Get rid of all hair or scalp troubles by using Parisian Sage, the remedy that never fails to kill the germs.

For sale by leading druggists for 50 cents a large bottle and in Rushville by F. B. Johnson & Co., who guarantee it to stop itching scalp, falling hair, splitting hair and dandruff or money back.

Parisian Sage is a favorite with discriminating women, for it will make the hair grow luxuriant and beautiful. It is not stick or greasy, but it is a most delightful hair dressing.

"I am a good and true friend of Parisian Sage. It appealed to my scalp trouble at once while I was using the first bottle. I also suffered with an itching of the scalp which caused large sores to form. The use of Parisian Sage took away all the trouble, healed and removed the sores, made my head feel cool, and caused the hair to grow in nicely." J. W. THE PENWOMAN'S BOOK.

Features of a Washington League's Work For a Year.

The League of American Penwomen in Washington has arranged an unusual program for the next twelve months. One group of the league will study forestry, and another will investigate the mountaineers of Tennessee. Each group will include twenty members, and at the end of the year complete reports will be published in book form. The two lines of work will be pursued with the assistance of government officials, and the women are confident they will do good work in both subjects.

Members will scatter through the Tennessee mountains, and they expect to gain practical experience of the cabin life in those regions. The chief aim in going to the mountaineers will be to recommend a method of spreading education, as the mountaineers now are practically without educational advantages.

PORT DISASTER AT MONTEVIDEO

Two Hundred Drowned at Harbor Entrance.

EXCURSION STEAMER WRECKED

While Entering Harbor in a Driving Rain, Argentine Excursion Steamer Colombia Was Rammed by a North German Lloyd Steamer, Outbound, and Sent to the Bottom—Nearly Two Hundred Persons Were Drowned, the Majority of Whom Were Women and Children—Members of Crew Save Themselves.

Montevideo, Aug. 25.—The Argentine excursion steamer Colombia and the North German Lloyd steamer Schlesien collided in a rainstorm at the entrance of Montevideo harbor. The Colombia was entering port and the Schlesien was outbound bound for Bremen. The Colombia's bow was crushed in and she sank almost immediately. Between 150 and 200 persons were killed or drowned.

The Colombia carried about 200 passengers and a crew of forty-eight men. Most of the passengers were asleep and panic followed the crash. Almost immediately small boats put out to the sinking steamer, but the work of rescue was rendered very difficult by the high sea. About seventy persons were brought ashore. Most of the dead are women and children. A majority of the survivors are men. The Colombia was carrying excursionists from Buenos Ayres to a festival at Montevideo, and the disaster has caused the keenest emotion. The Uruguayan government in consequence has postponed the fetes arranged for the celebration of the inauguration of the port.

The Schlesien was only slightly damaged and has been detained here by the port authorities. Her commander attributes the collision to the wind and the high seas, which made both steamers almost unmanageable. The channel is now partially obstructed by the wreck of the Colombia. Most of the survivors of that vessel were taken from the masts and many of them were injured. While great numbers of women and children were drowned, almost every one of the ship's complement was saved. Scores of bodies have been recovered and are now lying at the custom house, but many of them have not been identified.

NEGRO RAN AMUCK

Before He Was Checked He Had Shot Twenty-Nine Persons.

Monroe, La., Aug. 25.—Because two of his friends had recently been shot by police officers in this city, and aroused to a frenzy, William S. Wade, a negro, ran amuck on the principal business street of Monroe with a double-barrelled shotgun, shooting first at every white man he saw and then firing indiscriminately at every object before him. The fire was returned and the negro finally fell dead with a bullet through his heart, but not before twenty-nine men, three of them members of his own race, had been more or less seriously wounded.

Seriously wounded: Hugh Bigger, police officer, shot in abdomen and thigh, may die; T. H. Grant, deputy sheriff, shot in neck and breast, may die; Simon Marks, merchant, Tuskegee, Ala., shot in breast and face, may die; George McCormack, manager Ouachita Lumber company, West Monroe, arm shattered.

Among the slightly wounded are Dr. A. A. Forsythe, mayor of Monroe; D. A. Eppard, banker and president of North Louisiana Shingle company; Ed Strong, cashier Southern Express company, Joe Thompson, chief dispatcher on Iron Mountain railroad; Albert Mar. vice president Southern Hardware company; J. L. Kendall, trainmaster Iron Mountain railroad; D. G. Trousdale, secretary and treasurer Southern Grocery company; J. W. Marryman, agent Wells-Fargo Express company. Wade's body was publicly burned after it had been cut down from a pole on which it had been hung for half an hour or more after he was killed. Wade came to Monroe recently from Pine Bluff, Ark. He was accompanied by several other negroes, and they commenced to make trouble for the local police soon after they arrived. It was alleged that they were members of a society in Arkansas which had as its object revenge for all injuries done the black race.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 25.—The foreign office is advised from Constantinople that the dangerous period in the recent difficulty between Greece and Turkey over Crete is at an end. The Turkish minister at Athens will be recalled. The next steps depend upon proposals which the porte is formulating for presentation to the powers and which concern changes in the administrative machinery of Crete.

bullets fell on the garrison and in the harbor. There were, however, no Spanish casualties. Sixteen thousand additional soldiers are ready for service in Morocco and will be sent either to Melilla or Ceuta.

General Weyler, at one time governor general of Cuba, said that he would like to go to Melilla and take command of the Spanish expedition, but that he was willing to await the call of his country. He said he was convinced that the Spanish army would win. The cortes probably will open Oct. 1, and General Weyler will then have something to say on both the Catalanian and Moroccan situations. "A policy of foresight," he declared, "would have avoided the Catalanian trouble."

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 25.—The special session of the Alabama legislature which adjourned last night, after twenty-two working days, accomplished the chief purpose for which it was called by passing the most drastic prohibition laws ever enacted by any state and capping the laws by submitting to the people an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the sale or manufacture of intoxicants in Alabama. The election will be held the last week in November.

WESTERN ROADS WIN RATE CASE

Interstate Commerce Commission Gets Setback.

JOBGING CENTERS AFFECTED

United States Court at Chicago Permanently Enjoins the Interstate Commerce Commission From Enforcing Its Seaboard-Missouri River Through Rate—Manufacturers and Producers Regarded as the Greatest Beneficiaries of This Decision—Railroads Retain Rate-Making Power.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Producers and manufacturers generally of the territory lying between Buffalo, Pittsburg and Parkersburg on the east and the Mississippi river on the west, are regarded as the greatest beneficiaries by the majority decision of the United States circuit court here, permanently enjoining the interstate commerce commission from enforcing its seaboard-Missouri river through rate in the famous Missouri river rate case.

The opinion of Judges Grosscup and Kohlsaat (Judge Baker dissenting), if sustained by the supreme court of the United States, will greatly curtail the power of the commission over transportation rates restricting it to a sort of police court adjudication of specific cases of alleged discrimination. The rate-making power remains in the hands of the railroads.

The Missouri river cities which would have profited had the commission's order been allowed to go into effect, benefit by the court's ruling in the Denver rate case. In the latter a temporary restraining order was issued.

This case and the Missouri river case are similar in principle, the former concerning the commission's order of a new and reduced through rate between Chicago and St. Louis to Denver. The commission's order of June 24, 1908 reduced the rate on first class freight from the seaboard (east of Buffalo, Pittsburg and Parkersburg) to Missouri river points from $1.48 to $1.39. This order was issued upon representation of the Missouri river interests, manufacturers and jobbers chiefly, that the seaboard rate of $1.15 to Minneapolis and St. Paul was a discrimination against them, inasmuch as the twin cities, using the cheaper water rate of the Mississippi boats, were able to undersell them in their own territory on articles coming originally from the seaboard. The seaboard shipper shared in the profit seen in the commission's order over his competitors in central traffic territory who would not share in the reduced rate.

According to aroused sentiment in Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, St. Louis and other central traffic cities, the order was a rank discrimination calculated to ruin their industries. They were not aroused, however, by the Denver case. This case was the Missouri river case over again, save that central traffic points and Denver would reap the benefit of a 23-cent reduction in the through rate which the Missouri river points would not enjoy. Missouri river interests were to be protected against the middle west, and Denver against the Missouri river. The seaboard had an advantage in both rates.

In their opinion, Judges Grosscup and Kohlsaat held that congress in creating the interstate commerce act had not intended to place a power in the hands of a few men to build up one community, or ruin another. They held that in ordering the through rates at issue the commission had greatly exceeded its powers.

HARRIMAN'S HEALTH

No Apparent Improvement Found at Foreign "Cure."

New York, Aug. 25.—That genius of finance, leader of men and master builder of railroads, E. H. Harriman, came back to the United States while the financial world stood on its tiptoes in anxiety and expectancy. He came back as he left on June 1 last—a sick, tired man, seeking health. Today, surrounded by his family and physicians at his magnificent—though uncompleted—summer home at Arden on the Hudson, he has begun the "after cure" which he needs after the enervating baths and dietetic treatment he underwent at the Austrian resort, Bad Gastein. How long it will be before he resumes the active direction of his vast railroad interests depends solely upon his health. He arrived feeble, face gaunt and voice weak. "And I have come home," he said, "for a cure and not for work."

Many great Americans have returned to their country's shores under extraordinary circumstances, but never has there been a more remarkable homecoming of a private citizen than E. H. Harriman's. Great stock market operators paused as the ship drew near, the stock market itself marked time, and the industrial world turned its eyes seaward, as it were, eager for a glimpse of the face of the man whose illness abroad has furnished much material for stock market rumors.
